

Norman Jones

“The situation was that she had a son who was a similar age to me, slightly older, his name was Kenneth, erm, it was a very small terraced cottage, we had to share the same bed, we used to top and tail in that bed. She had a grown-up daughter as well. Her husband he worked at a nearby American base as a stoker and I believe the daughter also worked up at the American base as well, erm, in fact she married one of the Americans during the time I was there and I was a page boy.”