

Vera Jenkins

“And if the truth’s known, I would think probably, my mother was unhappy to see us go, but at least she didn’t have to cook for us and she didn’t have to do our washing, she only had to look after one person, which I know living on my own now is much easier than looking after three. She obviously missed us, but obviously she was busy in the shop. It was a new shop and erm, there was, there were plenty of servicemen there to serve, but not many other customers ‘cause they’d all been evacuated, but gradually they drifted back and the shop was doing quite well.”