

Elizabeth Barker

We had several meetings in the hall at the girl's school, the headmistress used to take these meetings and mums and dads were invited and told about the situation, and she begged mums and dads to let us go because we were right on the side of the Thames and there was Ford's motorworks and the munitions and she said it would be, we would be a target, so mum and dad talked it over with us, there were tears all round.