“Where we went from there we went to Goldenhill Road, we’ve been to Carron Street weren’t we with Ethel Hodgkinsons, where you asked for some sweet coupons and she give you a good hiding. It’s little, just little things what stick in your mind isn’t it? Remember that? Erm I mean this is, we lived with this family in Berdmore Street didn’t we? And grandma had sent us lovely cutlery and clothes and everything and he turned us out in the middle of the night, and that’s when we had to go in Penkhull Homes wasn’t it? He turned us out in the middle of the night and we had to go to the police station and they, they took us to Penkhull Homes and mother had to go in the workhouse, now I’d never tell anybody this when I was younger because I was that ashamed of my mother being in the workhouse but we used to tell everybody that she had to go in hospital when she went in Penkhull Homes didn’t we? But from there we had a first holiday. We went to Llandudno for a fortnight with them didn’t we?”
